

CRYSTAL TEARS - Lyrics by Allan West

VERSE 1

The mad mutilation of civilisation
The vulture chewing at culture
The man in the crowd
Is talking too loud
We'll turn him into a soldier

VERSE 2

The sad degradation of sophistication
You know Mother Nature
Must hate yu!
You say you can't see this mad killing spree
Yet your own Frankenstein just ate yu!

CHORUS

So how does it feel
Now you know that it's real?
And life's no big deal, yeah
How does it feel?

And what will you do now
And what will you say?
When that big boy upstairs
Just gives us away?

VERSE 3

The senseless starvation of God's own creation
And how many times were we told?
That our chance of survival
Has too many rivals
Now our human warmth has run cold

CHORUS

So how does it feel
Now you know that it's real?
And life's no big deal, yeah
How does it feel?

And what will you do now
And what will you say?
When that big boy upstairs
Just gives us away?

BRIDGE

*Crystal tears of forgotten years
Of memories bitter and sweet
As life rolls along
To the tune of a song
That has no rhythmic beat*

*I think we're on the very brink
Of what you'd call disaster
But if you saw what we're in for
You'd wish it would come faster*

VERSE 4

Our end of existence will see no resistance
We'll offer no Why, When or Hows
And God will create a new kind of race
With a conscience much greater than ours!

CHORUS

So how does it feel
Now you know that it's real?
And life's no big deal, yeah
How does it feel?

And what will you do now
And what will you say?
When that big boy upstairs
Just gives us away?
